Officials replace plaques; search for Wasatch vets

12-11-88
SALT LAKE CITY — The Utah Veterans' Employment and Training Service is looking for a few good men and women.

Dale Madsen, Director of the Utah office, announced his office is joining forces with Wasatch County in an attempt to locate the names of residents from Wasatch County who have served in the Armed Forces.

The county is conducting this search in an attempt to replace six bronze plaques which were taken from a monument located on Memorial Hill, several miles east of Midway. The plaques were part of a monument built in 1928 honoring those Wasatch County men and women who have served their country in the military. In 1983 the plaques were stolen and to this day have not been found.

According to Dale Madsen, the county is "asking anyone with information about a Wasatch County resident who served in the Armed Forces from the Indian Wars to the Vietnam War to please contact the County Commissioners." New plaques will be made and placed on the monument.

Wasatch County To List Veterans On New Plaques

Jan 1989
The Utah Veterans' Employment and Training Service is looking for a few good men and women. The service is joining forces with Wasatch County to locate the names of county residents who have served in the armed forces.

The names were engraved on six bronze plaques that were part of a monument on Memorial Hill, east of Midway. The monument, built in 1928, honors those Wasatch County men and women who have served in the military. The plaques were stolen in 1983 and have not been found.

Dale Madsen, director of the veterans' service, said the county is asking anyone with information about a Wasatch County resident who served in the armed forces, "from the Indian wars to the Vietnam War," to contact the Wasatch County Commission, 25 N. Main, Heber City, Utah 84032. When all the names are gathered, new plaques will be made and placed on the monument.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific procedures for recording transactions. It details the steps involved in the accounting process, from the initial entry of data into the system to the final review and approval of the records.

3. The third part of the document addresses the issue of data security. It discusses the various risks associated with the loss or theft of financial data and provides recommendations for implementing effective security measures to protect the information.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the importance of regular audits. It explains how audits can help to identify errors and discrepancies in the records and ensure that the system is operating in accordance with established standards and regulations.

5. The fifth part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed in the previous sections. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping, proper procedures, data security, and regular audits in maintaining the integrity of the financial system.
